Interim National Schools Commissioner announced (June 12th)

The Department for Education has confirmed that Regional Schools Commissioner Dominic Herrington is to be appointed as the interim National Schools Commissioner from September. The temporary appointment will provide continuity for academies across the country when Sir David Carter retires from the civil service after four years at the department. Dominic Herrington has been Regional Schools Commissioner for the South-East of England and South London since being promoted from his role as Director of the Academies Group at the department in 2014 and will continue to oversee this area of work. He will lead the team of Regional Schools Commissioners and oversee their collaboration with the academy sector to nurture innovation and help improve education for every child.

Dominic Herrington said:

"I'm looking forward to working with the Regional Schools Commissioners in seven other areas of England to build on Sir David Carter's achievements by continuing to challenge and support school leaders".

Opportunities

The Tailored Support Programme

The Tailored Support Programme has been running since January 2018, providing support to schools with recruitment and retention challenges. An essential element to the programme is the deployment of system leaders (usually National Leaders of Education or equivalent) with experience in providing strategic support to schools and dealing with teacher supply issues.

More system leaders are required in some areas of the country from September 2018. An EOI has been published for system leaders to support the next phase of the tailored support programme with a deadline of 4th July.

System leaders to work with schools are invited and encouraged to express an interest in the following areas of EMSYH:

Derbyshire, East Riding, Lincolnshire, Nottinghamshire

We have published a new EOI for system leaders to support the next phase of the tailored support programme with a deadline of 4th July.

The Teaching School Council (TSC) is a national body representing all Teaching Schools in England. The Council is made up of 20 elected members with either a national or regional remit, who direct or shape the work of Teaching Schools through discussion with government ministers and senior officials.

We believe that every child is entitled to be in a great school.

There are three commitments that we make as a Teaching School Council.
We seek to ensure that every school in England is:

- able to access relevant and timely support
- prepared to be a giver of support
- in an effective partnership
